

"IT WAS THE MILLENNIUM YEAR
AND HUDDERSFIELD WAS BLEAK AND BLACK.
IT WAS DECEMBER. IT WAS VERY BLACK. I HATED
ALL THIS BLACK STONE, I JUST FIND IT SO
DEPRESSING AND I STILL DO.
BUT THERE'S ACTUALLY A FEW PLACES ALONG HERE
THAT HAVE THAT SENSE OF SECLUSION AND PRIVACY, WHICH IS SORT OF CHARMING. AND ONE OF THE
NICE THINGS ABOUT WALKING DOWN HERE IS
ALTHOUGH THERE'S A FAIR AMOUNT OF TRAFFIC
YOU CAN LOOK ACROSS THE HILL AND JUST SEE
GREEN TREES AND CASTLE HILL IN THE DISTANCE
AND YOU DO GET A SENSE OF COUNTRY,
AND SPACE HERE."

SURFACE PATTERNS: WALKING TOURS: 04
10 People. 10 Walks. 10 Stories Told.